Cookies and Related Technologies

We, VD Law Group, use cookies to offer you the best experience during your journey on our website.

Cookies are small text files that are placed and stored on your device when you visit our website.

Depending on their purpose, cookies can be classified into several categories, such as:

Technical cookies which are used to run and protect our website while others are used to make it more efficiently.

Analytic and advertising cookies which enable us to analyse your activity on our website so that we can serve you better in the future.

Non-tracking cookies which are used to store your decisions in terms of your ad consent and opt-out choices.

Most cookies contain a unique identifier called a cookie ID (a string of characters that websites and servers associate with the browser on which the cookie is stored). It allows our websites and servers to distinguish the browser from other browsers that store different cookies, and to recognize each browser by its unique cookie ID.

If we do collect personal data through our website, we'll be upfront about this. We'll make it clear when we collect personal information, and we'll explain what we intend to do with it.

How do I change my cookie settings?

You can adjust the available sliders to 'On' or 'Off', then clicking 'Save and close'. You may need to refresh your page for your settings to take effect. Alternatively, most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set, visit www.aboutcookies.org or www.allaboutcookies.org.

Analytic and advertise cookies are useful for us to understand your needs and to improve our services.
vdlawgroup.com	_ga	Non – essential cookie (statistic cookie)	Registers a unique ID that is used to generate statistical data on how the visitor uses the website.	2 years
	ga#	Non – essential cookie (statistic cookie)	Used by Google Analytics to collect data on the number of times a user has visited the website as well as dates for the first and most recent visit.	2 years

We use a third-party service, Google Analytics, to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor's behavior patterns.

Google Analytics offers web analytics services that help us to analyze how users interact with our website or with specific parts of it. All the information is processed in a way that does not directly identify anyone.

We do not make and do not allow Google to make any attempt to find out the identities of our website's visitors.

If you want to learn more about Google Analytics, you can find their Privacy Policy here.

If we collect personal data on our website, we will inform you in advance. We will clarify when we collect personal information and explain what we intend to do with it.

* The session cookie is stored in temporary memory and is not retained after the browser is closed. Session cookies do not collect information from the user's computer. They typically will store information in the form of a session identification that does not personally identify the user.

 Persistent cookies are akin to a website's long-term memory. They help sites to remember your information and settings when you revisit them in the future. This helps create a convenient and faster website experience.

For any information regarding our cookies please do not hesitate to contact us at office@vdlawgroup.com
